

SHRI Engage – New Leadership & Lessons Learned from the Global Financial Crisis

21 June 2011, Tuesday | 2.30pm to 5.00pm | SHRI @ The Verge, TR 9

The Global Financial Crisis (GFC) has created a marked change in terms of the way people approach leadership around the world. Once valued as the doyen of leadership, the MBA has been identified as the fraud it is in allowing leaders to have knowledge without the capability to implement in times of crisis. Bill George, a Professor at Harvard said “The root cause of the economic crisis this year wasn’t subprime loans...it was subprime leadership”.

AIM NSW & ACT has conducted in-depth research with organisations and individuals in Australia to gain a better understanding of the current wisdom in relation to executive leadership training and education. This research provided deep insight that has enabled us to create a game changing approach to the executive education market.

In this session, we will explore:

- How to drive a high performance leadership environment
- Developing leaders using practical approaches and real business problems
- Sustaining behavioural and cultural change
- Embedding individual learning outcomes
- Unlocking personal potential

SPEAKER Angus Macalister, Chief Operating Officer, AIM NSW & ACT

Angus Macalister joined AIM NSW & ACT in June, 2008 with a mandate from both the Board and the CEO to affect a significant turnaround within the Learning & Development business; which encompasses learning delivery of open and customized programs, business development of the whole of AIM, customer service, research & HR consulting, trainers, curriculum, compliance and qualifications. Angus brings to his current role extensive experience in senior management in both turnarounds and start-ups. He also started his career as the HR Manager for Dixons Stores in UK and then moved to Australia to rapidly move through recruitment and training organizations to become Managing Director for DDI Asia Pacific, CEO SDI (recruitment and assessment) and Founding Partner with JML Australia (extensive recruitment and human capital consulting).
